

Improved functionality added to Handex and Synchrodex ranges, without increasing prices

Pillarhouse International is pleased to announce that the motorised solder feeder option will now be included, as standard, on their range of Handex and Synchrodex selective soldering systems. This option improves on the already successful pneumatic system that has been fitted for many years.

“Adding this feature to the Handex and Synchrodex range”, says David Johnson, Sales Director at Pillarhouse “shows our desire to provide the best possible solutions for our customers. It also furthers our commitment to be the world leaders in Selective Soldering technology”.

This option is also available as a retrofit upgrade for existing Handex and Synchrodex systems. The price for a retrofit kit will be £2000 (retail).
